A Publication of the American Avalanche Association

THE Avalanche REVIEW

US $4.95

VOLUME 25, NO. 1 • OCTOBER 2006

www.AmericanAvalancheAssociation.org

20 Years of the AMERICAN AVALANCHE ASSOCIATION

Photo by Emily Johnston, who tells TAR, "The photo of Hunter was taken from Kahiltna Base, as I recall we had several days of storm (no flying) so everyone was stacked up at base waiting to fly out. I just happened to have my camera in hand when I heard someone shout and saw this slide break loose."

Emily just finished her final year of med school and is hoping to re-enter the avalanche world in some form.

in this issue

From the President 2
From the Editor 2
AAA News 3
- AAA Board Meeting 3
- Mentorship 5

Metamorphism 3
What's New 6
Crown Profiles
- Doug Coombs 8
- Art Judson 10
- You Never Can Tell 12

Education
- SnowPro 9

Media
- Avalanche Acres 13

Snow Science
- Judgment & Decision-making, Part III 16

NAC 2005/06 Season Roundup
- Utah Avalanche Center 19
- Southeast Alaska Avalanche Center 19
- Idaho Panhandle National Forest Avalanche Center 20
- West Central Montana Avalanche Center 20
- Northwest Weather and Avalanche Center 20
- Sawtooth National Forest Avalanche Center 21
- US Forest Service Mt Shasta Avalanche Center 22
- Payette National Forest Avalanche Center 23
- Bridger-Teton National Forest Avalanche Center 23
- Mount Washington Avalanche Center 23
- Logan, Utah • Bear River Avalanche Information Center 24
- Northwest Montana & Glacier Country Avalanche Center 24
- Eastern Sierra Avalanche Center 25
- Gallatin National Forest Avalanche Center 25
- Chugach National Forest Avalanche Information Center 26
- Sierra Avalanche Center, Tahoe National Forest 27
- Colorado Avalanche Information Center 27

I heard a sound like a rifle crack. This entire slope took off below me. I fell straight down about 7 feet to the bed surface. I was looking at this huge mass of snow. It was like I was in the front seat of a Greyhound bus, looking out the window. —Art Judson, p10

The Avalanche Review
P.O. Box 2831
Pagosa Springs, CO 81147